Preamble

The Report of Monitoring Eighteenth Parliament Performance on the Local Level aims at informing electors and representatives' electoral bases of the activities done by the representatives elected on the local level during their entitlement period; whereas report discusses extent of representatives' communication with their electoral bases during performance of parliamentary duties along with the extent of engaging electoral bases in the process of making legislative and monitoring decision while holding consultations about the laws discussed by the House of Representatives. It also tackles the extent of electoral district citizens' capability to access the representative and extent of representatives' commitment to having societal committees or effective and easy-to-access offices in the electoral districts.

Report also discusses the direct periodical meetings that call together representatives with their electoral districts and extent of representatives' communication with electoral district citizens through different Social Media means.

This Report is considered part of the national duty lying upon We Participate Center for Civil Society Development; whereas we participate in supporting the reform path in Jordan, and we hope this report would help electors especially during the period of electing the nineteenth House of Representatives in recognizing representatives' performance indicator in their electoral districts as well as helping them raise the quality of elections through selecting representatives who are capable of representing the electoral district correctly.

The "We Participate" team depended on a clear methodology through targeting a selected sample of electoral districts' citizens that is distributed between civil / local society organizations' members, parties' representatives, municipal and local councils' members, governorate councils' members, executive councils' members, public sector workers, academics, Bar Association members, Jordanian Engineers Association members, Jordanian Teachers' Association members, Jordan Medical Association members, Mayors, youth male and female activists, unemployed and employed university students and graduates, private sector companies' owners, and public and private sectors' retirees; whereas researchers use previously-prepared and agreed surveys that researchers were trained upon implementing them previously. Surveys are directly applied to the respondent by the researcher.

This report covers all Kingdom governorates and districts and aims at enhancing parliamentary performance through providing representatives and electors with copies of the report to increase representative attention to district citizens.

We Participate Center for Civil Society Development

A Jordanian non-profit and non-governmental civil society association that was established in 2014 with the efforts of a group of Jordanian civil activists and youth in Al-Zarqa Governorate. We Participate Center aims at enhancing the concepts of accountability and popular participation in decision making process in Jordan within the principles of democracy and human rights; whereas the Center raises societal awareness about civil values such as freedom, equality, justice and best participation while enhancing social cohesion among Jordanian society members.

We Participate Center believes in the importance of correct investment in youth and women power being the main motive for societies' development. It also believes in that effective participation is the basis in the process of change for achieving an effective consistent and democratic society; that's why the Center through its continuous activities targets youth and women and is keen to give them an actual role in preparing Center strategies and plans through holding discussion sessions for tackling societal challenges and setting the plans and perceptions of the optimal methods for solving such challenges from youth and women points of view.

We Participate Center built a wide network with civil society organizations through forming "Participation" Musharaka Coalition that consists of 34 institutions from the different governorates and districts of Jordan, including rural, remote and Bedouin areas as well as refugees' camps; in order to guarantee effective and comprehensive participation of local societies in the different geographic distributions and economic classes.

Project of Enhancing Civil Society Institutions' Capabilities for Improving Parliamentary Performance

The Project of Enhancing Civil Society Institutions' Capabilities for Improving Parliamentary Performance executed by We Participate Center for Civil Society Development is considered one of the leading projects on both national and Arab levels, which is stemming from our belief in the importance of increasing local societies' contribution to decision-making process; through enhancing the concept of institutional societal accountability and monitoring to be dedicated as a fixed methodology for enhancing parliamentary performance and filling the gap between parliamentarians and electoral bases, which serves the political reform in Jordan.

The project is implemented through a strategic partnership with Al-Hayat — Rased Center and the participation of the Societal Coalition for Parliamentary Monitoring "Musharaka" that consists of 34 local civil society institutions on the Kingdom's level within Qararuna Program supported by the AECID and the EU.

The project of "Enhancing Civil Society Institutions' Capabilities for Improving Parliamentary Performance" comes as a response to the fourth component of Qararuna of the EU JDID Program for supporting democratic and development institutions in Jordan, which is represented in "Enhancing the role of the Civil Society for Contributing in the Democratic Ruling and Policy-Making in Jordan", in addition to its main components: parliamentary support, elections' support and political parties' support.

Reference of social coalition for parliamentary monitoring "Musharaka - Participation"

Stemming from the belief in the national role of the civil society organizations; We Participate Center launched the Societal Coalition for Parliamentary Monitoring "Musharaka - Participation" in order to enhance the concept of societal monitoring and positive engagement between civil society institutions and the elected councils, and based on the content of the fourth discussion paper launched by his Majesty King Abdullah II Bin Al-Hussein, which stipulates: "one of the most important democratic transformation requirements is enhancing the civil society and its role in monitoring the political performance to be developed towards the best; through instilling the democratic culture in society, in order for the democratic change to become a tangible reality on all levels".
